ton called on the officers of the Cambrian this morning to arrange a cricket match with the Honolulu club.

R. G. Foster, the British Consul, returned the Cambrian captain's visit this morning. The usual salute was fired as the Consul left the man-of-war.

Things at the Police Court were very quiet this morning, there being only a few cases on the calendar and most of these were continued till tomorrow.

The attendance at the lectures at the College of Hawaii on Monday evening was large, and the auditors showed great interest in the subject under discussion.

The Kapiolani League will hold a meeting at the home of Jno. F. Sylva

To Elect Senators
On Advisory Vote

SACRAMENTO, Calif., March 9.—After the bitterest debate at this session, the Assembly went on record as favoring the election of United States Senators by an advisory vote by legislative districts instead of by an advisory vote of the State.

French Income Tax

PARIS, France, March 9.—The Chamber of Deputies has passed the income tax measure. It is said that the result will be the exodus from France of the large foreign colony. The measure provides that the income to be taxed shall be calculated at seven times the amount of rent paid.

SMALL FARMS ARE WASTEFUL!

tions I saw in the South and the comments made by Judge Lamont have gone far to convince me that a large number of small land holders tends to inefficiency, wastefulness and unprofitable expense. Judge Lamont called attention to the fact that while Georgia had produced more agricultural wealth than any other State in the Union, it was poverty-stricken, and his only answer to this state of affairs was to be found in the fact that there were so many holdings of forty and ninety acres, tilled by the small farmer, who hurried his one bale of cotton into the market in order to realize quickly and spend the money, that the whole cotton market of Georgia was demoralized by the method.
A large part of the cotton crop is left in the fields owing to the crude methods of the small farmer; he has no money with which to buy fertilizers, and altogether the condition of the small cotton farmer of Georgia has led me to feel that nothing can ever be gained by parceling out the land of Hawaii to a large number of holders.

I regret that this is so, because I had hoped that in this way many of our local problems might be met and resolved. I found the same thing in Cuba, where 71 per cent was the average amount of the sugar crop gathered and made available for the market.

"Play cricket? We should say so!
When and where?" were the replies thrown at the writer when he mentioned the English game. A match was at once arranged for Saturday next, and this will be followed by another game against the combined teams of the Cambrian and Florio; the latter is expected here in a few days.

"Tennis? By Jove! I should think so. This afternoon, all right; six of us will have a practice."

Mr. Jordan very kindly put his courts at the disposal of the officers during their stay in port. A match will be played next week against some of the local men. From future delings the conversation wandered around to past events.

"Did the Cambrian go to Melbourne for the Cup race?" was asked.
A disgusted chorus of "Noes!" went up from the bunch. One young officer whispered to the writer, "It's just our luck. There we all were simply dying to see the greatest horse race of the year, and we were ordered off to Sydney. It was awful, our not being able to get down to Melbourne just then. Still, we had a good time in Sydney, and were sorry to leave for the South Seas. In Auckland we went to lots of dances—do they dance much in Honolulu?" On being informed that the giddy waltz and lively two-step were the principal diversions of the Honolulu belles, the aforesaid officer brightened up a lot. "Visions of white-clad beauties madden across his brain—at least, that is what the interviewer imagines. Being badly engaged in putting something "with a streak in it" across his bosom, the chronicler cannot vouch for the ardent imaginings of the naval man.

"Yes," chimed in another officer, "we certainly had a grand old time in New Zealand, but the best time of all was in Tonga. King George came on board; he was attired in a very close-fitting tunic, and as he is about the stoutest man I ever saw, and the day was very hot, he looked most uncomfortable. The King had "medals all over his bosom, and although his tall silk hat was not in evidence he presented a remarkable sight. On going ashore we were treated right royally, and nothing was too good for us. The Tongans are very keen on cricket and we played a game of a game with them.
Part of a game! That's right—we were only at Tonga a few days, and as a match there lasts for about three weeks, we had to stop playing before the match had really begun—that is, from the Tongan standpoint!"

The officers were anxious to hear who had been chosen to represent Australia on the cricket fields of Karoland. Their anxiety being allayed on this point, the talk veered around to football. The Wallabies were criticized from every standpoint, and the ultimate verdict was that the team had done very well during their tour.

The naval bunch are keen about all kinds of sport and are looking forward to their stay in Honolulu with great delight. The officers had just received their home mail, and as the British Consul had just dropped in to pay his call, the reporter faded away, feeling sorry to leave such a fine lot of fellows.

The bluejackets get shore leave tomorrow and will take in the sights of the city. With reference to the visit of the American Fleet to Sydney during their cruise around the world, most of the officers are of the opinion that the "jackies" would have been far happier if left to their own devices whilst on shore-leave, and that official functions were not much enjoyed by the men. And it seems a very reasonable view to take of the matter, too. "Jack" likes to wander at will with a pal or two, and has a rooted objection to pink tea—in fact, for any kind of tea—whilst ashore. He gets enough of that dope on board ship, and local people may paste this bit of advice in their hats: "Welcome the jackies sure; give them the glad-hand, but don't pester them with formal invitations to bun struggles and pink tea."
